PA NEW OBSERVES

Lawrence County drivers seem to obey traffic rules a lot better than they do in other sections of the state. In a recent week, out of 436 drivers who had their licenses suspended for various infractions, only one was from Lawrence County.

Statistics show that more boys are born during wartime than girls, but the figures from the Jameson Memorial hospital yesterday sort of refuted this claim. The first youngster who arrived was a boy, but six girls followed in rapid succession.

One of the street sign posts at the intersection of Highland and Sheridan avenues has toppled over. Probably hit by an auto that didn't make the curve correctly.

Going through wrestling maneuvers out in the center of the George Washington athletic field on Monday evening about 5 o'clock, Pa. News saw a couple of local athletes. They were attired in red uniforms. The pair had the entire field to themselves, and were evidently toughening up for the coming football season.

Some sort of blight seems to have struck a certain variety of trees in the district. Leaves have turned a brownish color, and give an appearance to some woods that fall is already here.

There is no question in the mind of any autoist that has been on the highways of western Pennsylvania this summer that there has been a large decrease in auto traffic. Especially noticeable is the absence of cars from other states.

Some new autos are still being transported overland. Pa. News saw one of the transports loaded with four new machines going through the city a few days since.

A lot of farmettes are aiding with work on the farms these days. Especially noticeable are the number of women aiding with threshing work on some of the farms.

Pa. News observed a car bearing a Michigan license going through town the other day, the occupants of which were evidently shaking the

Allied Plan To Break Up

Is Developing

By LEO V. DOLAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, Aug. 18.—A carefully-laid pattern of aerial attack to break up essential German defenses against a second front emerged today as the Royal Air Force raided the Nazi-occupied coast following a devastating night assault against the industrial city of Osnabrueck.

The all-American raid by flying fortresses against the Seine river city of Rouen and unceasing sorties which blasted Nazi communications centers on the Reich and occupied centers were believed to be having a major effect.

Signs Of Nazi "Jitters"
It now is becoming apparent, well-informed quarters said, that the Germans see in these raids the

Old Timers Are Set For Outing

Descendants Of Pioneer Settlers Will Gather At Cascade Park Wednesday

REYNOLDSTOWNERS MEETING TONIGHT

Once again there will be a gathering of the clans, as the descendants of those hardy pioneers who settled Lawrence county gathered at the pavilion at Cascade park tomorrow afternoon to mingle together in a common bond of fellowship and enjoy the diversions of yesterday. The occasion will be the annual reunion of the Old Timers association.

The attendance this year may not be as big as in former years due to the fact that folks are mighty busy these days on account of the war, and travel restrictions may prevent the attendance of a great many who used to come from far off states to greet their old friends, but the fellowship will not be lacking.

Quite a number of familiar faces

Brief Strike At Plant In Farrell

Farrell, Pa., Aug. 18.—Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation's ordnance plant here was closed down for 10 hours today by a "wildcat" strike of cranesmen involved in a wage dispute.

The strike forced 2,000 men into idleness for that period of time. A company spokesman announced that the men had returned at 10 o'clock this morning after hurried conferences were held to iron out the trouble.

Reject Request For Radio Alarm

Pittsburgh, Aug. 18.—Allegheny county's request for a radio alarm to signal the start of the state's next surprise blackout test was rejected today by both the army and federal communications commission.

The Allegheny defense council had requested the radio alarm because of the city of Pittsburgh has not been equipped with sirens yet. Officials of the council, however, were not surprised at the rejection of their suggestion.

Second Phase Of Solomon Islands Battle Imminent

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The second and possibly decisive phase of the Solomon Islands battle appeared to be developing today with every indication that American forces are set for virtually any enemy counter blow in that southwestern Pacific area formerly dominated by the Japanese.

While official silence cloaked action which undoubtedly has occurred in the past nine days, the navy gave some hint of developments in a belated communique which stated that beachheads taken by U. S. Marines "have since been developed and now are well established."

In lifting partially the lid of secrecy that has been clamped on since the battle began 12 days ago, the navy revealed that the first attacks of the new Pacific drama ended in victory for U. S. forces, including the routing of Nipponese fleet units by American warships in a dramatic night battle.

Another Plant May Be Seized

Armed Forces May Be Ordered To "Take Over"
Plant At Boston

By WILLIAM L. UMSTEAD
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—President Roosevelt, for the second time within a week, is expected today to order the armed forces to "take over" operation of a war firm which failed to settle a dispute as directed by the war labor board.

If the management of the S. A. Woods Machine Co., shell manufacturers, Boston, fails to sign a contract with a CIO union by 2 p. m. as ordered by the WLB, the case will be placed on the president's desk for "appropriate action"—presumably seizure of the plant by the Army or Navy.

WLB members believe that H. C. Dodge, president of the company, will not repudiate his consistent refusal to abide by the WLB ruling and that the plant will be seized immediately.

Approximately 650 workers who are members of the CIO-United Electrical Workers are involved in the dispute.

URGES RETURN TO LONG UNDERWEAR

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—A return to old fashioned long underwear was recommended today by C. E. A. Winslow, professor of public health of Yale Medical school.

Prof. Winslow said proper dress would permit comfortable living this winter in room temperatures 5 to 15 degrees below normal.

He urged "dictators" of women's fashions to glamorize ski suits for home, office and factory wear as they would hide feminine "longies."

Officials Hunt For Man Who
Fired Bullet That Wounded
Snizek

State, county and city authorities today continued to inquire into the shooting with a high powered rifle of Stanley Snizek, 46, of Fern street, Oakland, about 11:50 a. m. Monday. He is in a serious condition in the New Castle hospital, the bullet having passed through part of his body.

According to reports, Snizek told authorities that he heard the report of a gun. Other persons also stated they had heard a gun shot.

Some believe the high powered gun may have been fired from a distance of a mile or more. Others oppose this theory because the shot was heard.

The bullet passed through Snizek's shoulder above the heart. He is in a serious condition in the New Castle hospital.

Jap Sea Movements Halt In Timor Area

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Japanese sea movements in the area of Timor "have almost ceased," the Australian radio reported today in a broadcast heard by CBS.

Australian bombers recently attacked a convoy off Timor, sinking a number of merchant ships and damaging a cruiser, but since this time Japanese ships have not been in evidence, the broadcast said.

The coming year will be one filled with action it is anticipated. Transportation problems arising from the war exigencies will create problems entirely new and these must be worked out.

Meat Allocation Plan Considered

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—A program requiring meat allocation by packers to retailers, combined with a "meatless day" rationing plan, may be drawn up today by the WPB foods requirements committee.

Agriculture department officials said that the temporary meat-rationing plan, scheduled for most of the committee's attention, is one requiring that packers allocate as much meat to retailers as they are able to sell at some base period before a shortage developed.

The experts said that a meatless day plan may be combined with the allocation scheme but they added that there is some doubt in the minds of committee members as to whether meatless days, in themselves, would solve the problem.

Five Brazilian Ships Are Sunk

U-Boats Taking Toll Of Ships In South American Waters

NATION AROUSED BY NEW ATTACKS

By VICTOR HAWKINS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 18.—As survivors were landed from a torpedoed Brazilian ship, one of five sent to the bottom in the past few days by Axis submarines, the government today advised the public to remain calm and gave its pledge that "these crimes against Brazilian lives and property would not go unpunished."

Survivors were landed during the night from several lifeboats, but their number was not announced. Nor was the identity of their ship made public. A government statement denied a report originating in Montevideo, Uruguay, that 700 to 1,000 soldiers were aboard one of the vessels.

Loss Of Life Small
The transport carried only a small contingent of troops and "contrary to rumor, loss of life was not great," the statement declared.

Responsible officials remained close-mouthed about the sinkings, the rescue work and Brazil's possible action in retaliation. No one would comment on a prediction in diplomatic circles that the attack would lead to a new phase in the war.

Draft Not Expected To Cut Mails Here

Personnel Not Affected As In Some Cities, Postmaster Says

Postmaster William R. Hanna doesn't believe the war, so far as it can tell, will affect New Castle mail deliveries or other postal services.

Out of Washington comes word that the heavy draft on personnel may necessitate delivery reductions and other restrictions in some cities, but the department is leaving the problem to the postmasters.

Later on—for none of us know—we might have to make some adjustments, but for the present I see no need for doing so," the postmaster said.

Rural mail carriers are not burdened by the shortage worries, for Uncle Sam will see to it that they get enough to make their rounds.

Russia's Newspapers Display Elation Over British-U. S. Conferences

By JAMES E. BROWN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Aug. 18.—Russia's two most widely read and authoritative newspapers, Pravda and Izvestia, displayed great elation today in publishing the news of the visit of Prime Minister Winston Churchill, W. Averell Harriman, representing President Roosevelt, and other Anglo-American civilian and military leaders.

Pravda, official organ of the all-Party Communist party, and Izvestia, the official Soviet government publication, displayed the news of the momentous Moscow conferences on their front pages, which were featured by photographers of Churchill in his now-famous "siren" coveralls.

Posed with Premier Josef Stalin, the British leader's austere garment made the Russian "thief's" drab garb seem gay and dandish.

Washington Silent On Moscow Parley

Speculation Is Being Aroused

Capital Buzzes With Renewed Rumors Of Second Front Move

WAR PROBLEMS GIVEN AIRING

By ARTHUR F. HERMANN
WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—Official Washington remained silent today on the momentous Churchill-Harriman visit to Moscow, but this wartime capital buzzed with renewed rumors of a second front and other military decisions concerning the far-flung world battlefields.

Attending the conference, which was hailed as a possible "turning point" in the war, were:

British Prime Minister Winston Churchill, Lend-Lease Expediter W. Averell W. Harriman representing President Roosevelt, Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, British commander-in-chief, and Maj. Gen. Ronald P. Maxwell, United States commander in the middle east.

Speculation Aroused

The presence of British and United States military commanders of the near east gave rise to speculation that the conference dealt exhaustively with military steps to be taken in the event the Caucasus should fall to Germany, and the Nazi drive should spill over into Iran on the road to India.

With the revelation that Chinese Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek, as well as President Roosevelt, were kept in daily touch with the conferences, it was believed that the concentration of Japanese troops on the Siberian-Manchurian border also received marked attention.

The news from Moscow-London announcement which declared that the conferences were carried on in an "atmosphere of complete cordiality and complete sincerity" was taken as an indication that Russian Premier Stalin had no thoughts of capitulating to Germany and negotiating a separate peace.

To bolster this view, the Moscow radio broadcast a statement by the British prime minister in which he declared:

"We are full of determination to continue to fight hand in hand whatever sufferings or whatever difficulties may await us, to continue to fight hand in hand like comrades and brothers until the last remnants of the Hitlerite regime are smashed."

bomber command in Europe, set a milestone in the rapid progress for a full scale air offensive by both the Royal Air Force and U. S. army air force in preparation for a land assault against the continent.

Air Support Planned

At the conclusion of a conference with Maj. Gen. Spaatz, British Air Vice Marshal Richard Peck announced that air cover support for any continental invasion will be supplied by both the American and British air forces.

"While both forces will be under their respective commanders," Peck said, "the scheme will conform with the policy laid down by the staff chiefs of the respective governments and a perfect liaison exists between the forces."

He said that ranking American officers had worked out details for large scale raids in conferences with British leaders.

"Up to now," he continued, "the Americans have formed a part of the British scheme for bombardment of German targets, but it is soon expected there will be independent raids by the American air force alone."

Although the raid against the colorful Nazi-held city of Rouen was made by American bombers the escort consisted of British and Canadian pilots and American fliers in British Spitfires. Only the arrival of more complete forces of American fighter craft is needed before the entirely American sorties will begin.

significance to the official organs was disclosed in the editorials.

Pravda's editorial was headed: "An important event in the struggle against Germany."

But Izvestia was more specific, declaring:

"Military co-operation between Russia, Britain and the United States is being strengthened."

The negotiations presage an immediate concentration against the Hitlerite front, Izvestia said, and added:

"The united action of the Allies in the war will put greater fear into Germany and her satellites. Mutual understanding between Russia and her Allies has been strengthened."

"Though a more energetic and more powerful prosecution of the war the liberation of all United Nations is assured."

SECOND PHASE OF SOLOMON ISLANDS BATTLE IMMINENT

eral points in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area and that they had captured an undisclosed number of prisoners.

Considered significant by some naval experts is the mention in the communique that the night sea battle of Aug. 8-9 was the only engagement between surface vessels fought to date in the current Solomon battle. The fight took place when Jap cruisers and destroyers attempted to attack U. S. transports and cargo ships.

"This enemy force was intercepted and engaged by our cruisers and destroyers," the communique said. "The heavy fighting which followed resulted in the enemy's being forced to retreat before reaching the vessels engaged in the landing operations."

Whether Jap fleet units retreated toward the Java Sea or to enemy bases in the Carolinas was not known, and naval analysts declined to speculate on the possibility that the Nipponese since then may have been assembling a powerful sea force for a "showdown" battle.

Japs Must Risk Navy

Unless the Japs decide to abandon their garrison on at least three islands in the Tulagi area, which is considered unlikely, the enemy will have to risk a large portion of their remaining fleet strength to move in reinforcements.

Should this occur, a sea battle that may decide definitely the balance of Pacific sea power may take place in the Coral Sea area, scene of Japan's first major naval setback of the present war.

The fierce, unexpected suddenness of the American offensive in the Solomons was indicated by the navy communique, which read in part:

"The attacks were a complete surprise to the enemy and 18 of their seaplanes were destroyed before they could get into action."

"Transports-b-o-r-n-e, amphibious forces of the U. S. Marine Corps made several landings on islands in the Guadalcanal-Tulagi area. Vigorous enemy resistance was rapidly overcome and a number of Japanese prisoners were taken."

The shore positions taken by U. S. forces have since been developed and are now well established."

Jap Fleet Damaged

Just how badly Japanese fleet units were mauled in the night engagement may never be known, but it was believed by naval experts that the enemy force suffered considerable damage since it failed to reach the important invasion phase of the Solomon fight.

"The close range fighting during this night engagement resulted in damage both to the enemy and to our forces," the communique said.

"It is impossible, in night engagements to determine accurately the damage inflicted on the opposing force. No further statement is made at this time of the extent of damage to our forces because of the obvious value of such information to the enemy."

Admiral Ernest J. King, commander-in-chief of the U. S. fleet, previously announced that at least one U. S. cruiser was sunk and two cruisers, two destroyers and a transport damaged.

Since the American naval force routed the enemy, it was considered probable that Nipponese losses and damages in the battle was much greater than that suffered by the U. S.

AERIAL ATTACKS BEING INCREASED AGAINST NAZIS

groundwork of a second front offensive by the allies and signs of "jitters" among German militarists are noticeable.

The attack on Osnabrueck was an obvious and undoubtedly successful attempt to cripple German communications. This city lies on a direct line from Berlin and the great northern industrial areas of Germany to occupied Holland. Troop reinforcements and supplies rushed to the low countries in event of an allied invasion must pass through Osnabrueck unless valuable time is to be lost.

Day and night raids now being carried out by the R. A. F. and the United States army air corps in Europe are now designed not only to slow down enemy armament production but to disrupt strategic centers of communication which the Germans would have to utilize for rapid movement of troops.

See German Bewilderment

Military observers in London believed that German high command is seriously concerned by the sudden appearance of American flying fortresses in the skies above the occupied continent.

While the Americans regrouped for new attacks, R. A. F. bombers shuttled back and forth across the coast in the early hours of the day to bombard the channel areas from Ostend in Belgium to a point south of Boulogne in France. A blaze of gunfire reddened the sky for scores of miles.

The smashing daylight attacks followed up a strong night assault against the German industrial city of Osnabrueck and the first large-scale raid by American flying fortresses against Rouen and other objectives in occupied France.

Although the main target of the British night raids was Osnabrueck, bomber and fighter attacks also were carried out against Nazi-occupied territories.

Five British planes were reported missing by the air ministry.

U. S. FLIERS IN NEW ATTACKS ON JAP BASES

by Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, raided Japanese dispositions and lines of communication on Timor where allied guerrilla forces are continuing land action against the enemy.

Other allied aircraft, operating on an offensive reconnaissance, bombed the township of Kavieng, the harbor area and shipping in the harbor. Results of the bombardment could not be observed, the communique said.

Gen. MacArthur disclosed that the Japanese sent 24 bombers into the attack on Port Moresby and the nearby United Nations airfield. The assault was made from high altitude and resulted in some casualties and damage to installations. Allied fighters, the communique said, failed to intercept the enemy raiders.

A spokesman at headquarters said that the ability of the Japanese to bomb Port Moresby indicates that all their forces are not tied up in the Solomons.

Little News Of Solomons

There was little new here of the progress of the offensive in the Solomons where, Washington announced yesterday, U. S. Marines have established themselves.

It was said, however, that while there are grounds for believing both sides had swung into action all classes of war vessels, including battleships and aircraft carriers, there was no indication Japan is prepared to risk a major portion of her fleet in Solomons water. Probably a decisive stage will be reached in the sea fighting before the land actions are concluded, it was said. These battles may continue for a considerable time, it was believed.

Commenting meanwhile on American aid to Australia, Prime Minister John Curtin said:

"We are grateful for what America has done in the Coral Sea and at Midway Island, for the appointment of Gen. MacArthur and for the forces used in the battle of the Solomons."

The size of the U. S. forces in the Solomons, he pointed out, could not be discussed publicly.

Announcement was made of the promotion of Captain J. Carey Jones, chief of staff to Vice Admiral Herbert F. Leary, commander of United Nations naval forces in the southwest Pacific to rank of rear admiral.

CONVENTION GIVES SUPPORT TO WAR

adjourned to attend a picnic at Castle Beach. Cars left the hotel shortly after 2 o'clock loaded with delegates and visitors.

At the morning session the by-laws of the order were up for revision and a number of changes were suggested. Reports of committees were heard and suggested amendments made from the floor.

On Monday afternoon the reports of the state and national officers were heard. National President John S. Aldisert and State President Herman F. Carletti reviewed the work of the order in the past year and both dwelt at some length upon the war work done by the order.

Judge W. Walter Braham was an afternoon speaker Monday in his address Judge Braham congratulated the delegates for their fraternal activities and expressed his appreciation for their selecting New Castle as the convention city.

Assistant City Solicitor Frank O. Morey brought the greetings of city council.

Stirring Address

One of the most stirring addresses of the convention was that of State Senator Anthony Di Silvestro, who is the state vice president. Senator Di Silvestro stressed the fact that there is no divided allegiance in the order. "We are Americans," said he, "fighting to preserve the freedoms our forefathers came here to seek many years ago. Nothing but an all out effort is enough to crush the forces of totalitarianism and we of this order would be derelict in our duty if we were satisfied with anything short of an all out effort."

The election of officers will come Wednesday morning at the opening session of the convention. The convention city for 1943 will be selected and in the afternoon the new officers will be inducted.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

CHILDREN NEED BOTH PARENTS

I am impressed with the large number of letters I receive from mothers who say the husband takes no interest in the children, devotes little or no time to them and leaves all their discipline and guidance to her.

Every child needs fathering as well as mothering. Some fathers are so busy making a living for their family that they do not take time to give the children the companionship they deserve. The material things that fathers leave their children are not nearly so important as the personal influence they exert. It will go on with them even to their children and grandchildren.

A few fathers are so encumbered with their work that they are not physically able to spend so much time with their growing children. But even among these fathers there are many who could find ways of being more companionable with them when in their presence. During a few minutes daily some fathers give more to their children in happy companionship than do other fathers who have abundant time at home.

What The Mother May Do About It
What may the mother do to win the father's cooperation?

She can't do much by reminding him constantly of his shortcomings in these respects and in lecturing him forever on what he should do. Yet this is the very way many mothers proceed.

Were they wiser, they would avoid these measures and strive instead to set the stage so the father would choose to make a bigger personal contribution to the children. Many a father who seems disinterested in his children may have got that way by a very natural process.

In the first place, the mother is ordinarily with the growing child far more than the father can be. She has cared for him constantly since his early infancy, eased his pains and soothed his sorrows. She naturally has cuddled and fondled him more from his early infancy and been with him in moment of emotion.

She is more familiar with him as an emotional creature, as a person. If she has been fairly successful in maintaining his affection and confidence in the hours alone with him, he naturally tends to lean on her.

This very fact may cause the father to feel less qualified to win an equal amount of emotional response from his child. Sensing the mother's superior skill in her emotional relations to the growing child, the father may feel inferior. A few fathers even suppose that the mother and children have a corner on the family ties and that he really does not count for much in the family relationships. Sometimes his supposition is founded on fact.

Let the mother play up the father before the children and inspire them to show him special consideration in many little ways, not only on his birthday or at Christmas, but at many other times also. In this direction some mothers are great artists.

Solving Parent Problems
Q Is it wise to talk about the child's bad behavior to others in his presence?

A No, not even before an expert. Some children are often the more ready to repeat what seems to have been of great enough concern to be talked about. Keep this in mind when, at the party or before the family guest, you talk about how fast and recklessly your adolescent son drives.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERMAN

Despite our efforts to stamp them out, rugged individualists are showing their heads again.

We've got this fellow Higgins who wants to turn out ships like cookies in a bakery. This man Kaiser who wants to fill the air with cargo planes.

The bureaucrats keep telling them "It's impossible," and they keep saying "All right—all right—we'll do it."

What kind of people are they anyway? Contrast their stubbornness with those wild-cat strikers who returned to a New Jersey war plant last week.

The Army and Navy took over the plant and the strikers went back saying "We'll be happy to work for Uncle Sam."

They telegraphed the President, too. They said they were right behind him.

Isn't that ducky?

If we strike off medals for "intense patriotism" who do you think we're going to give them to—Higgins and Kaiser pestering the bureaucrats in Washington or those sterling souls who are "happy to work for Uncle Sam"?

Thought for the day: All right major—we'll go peacefully.

Hints On Etiquette

It is more than ever necessary in these tense times for us to be courteous when we use our telephones. Don't be disagreeable if you have to wait for a connection. The telephones are doing the very best they can under abnormal conditions.

A free land is one where people never hate a foreign enemy as they hate the opposition candidate for President.

A MOTHER'S PRAYER TO HER SON

Although my feet may never walk your ways,
No other eyes shall follow you so far.

No voice will reader to ring your praise,
Till the swift coming of those future days.

When the world knows you for the man you are,
You must go on and I must stay behind.

We may not face together, you and I,
But though the path to Fame be steep and blind,

Walk strong and steadfastly before mankind,
Because my heart must follow till you die.

Steadfast and strongly, scoring mean success,
Lent to others—to yourself, severe.

If you must fail, fail not in nobleness,
God knows all other failure I could bless.

Continue Quest For United Air Arm
Plane-Minded Folks Are Persistent
Ask Unified Control Of All Forces

By CHARLES P. STEWART

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The desirability of a cabinet department of military aviation has long been urged by air-minded persons.

Unified control of all branches of our armed forces also has been suggested. It exists to be sure, due to the president's position as commander-in-chief, but the unificationists want a boss in direct charge of national operations, which have to be adapted to changing conditions too rapidly for the president with his many other duties to keep up with minute by minute.

The main argument against consolidation has been that the army and navy air arms cannot be merged very handily. Their functions differ essentially. Each needs a group of its own patrolling kind of specialists to run it efficiently.

Both these sets of specialists were prompt to recognize aviation's value to their respective services. Flying was more or less in its infancy during the last war. Still, it was utilized by surface seaboroads, and it was used up to the limit of what they could get out of it in its then state of development.

Upon the present conflict's outbreak they grabbed at it alike, in its improved form, for all it was worth. They likewise made further improvements and are still making them. To what an extent they will have transformed early and heavenly transportation by the time this strife is over there's no telling.

Double Air Arm

The war department proceeds on the assumption that planes are included among army weapons. The navy department takes it for granted that they are among the fleet's weapons. They are not jealous of one another. The navy is welcome to as many bombers as it can get for all the army cares. And vice versa.

The point is, though, that the army classifies its flyers as "army aviators" and the navy speaks of its contingent as "navy aviators."

But a few months ago it began to be talked that our aviation is so important—if not more so—than either our army or navy, that it is more than a mere couple of land and sea adjuncts that it is entitled to a cabinet rating of its own.

Army and navy professionals, with their aviation subdivisions, naturally excepted, generally dissent from this reasoning. They are strong for aviation, but they maintain that it is essentially either an army or a navy subdivision and ought to be kept so, to get from it its best possible results.

These army and navy earthlings, then, agree that aviation is enormously useful, but not as an independent service, only subject to army and navy authority.

My! If those terrestrial-minded old army and navy men had foreseen the upturning of a cabinet department which regards aviation as an independent service, not only entitled to cabinet departmental status but a department of every-

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

It's a funny thing how different the world looks to you when you are not feeling well.

In the morning the sun was shining. The florist's window display was enough to make anybody glad he was alive and that, with Nature in that mood, things surely would be all right again after we had given a good licking to the Axis.

We stopped at a haberdasher's, picked up three brightly striped neckties and, singing, took the elevator to the office.

It was hot so we opened the window and set in a nice draft.

By noon we started to shuddle and the head became kind of aching.

Just to prove to ourselves that there was nothing wrong we ate a big lunch—corned beef and cabbage with a healthy hunk of apple pie for a chaser and a glass of iced coffee, in compliment to the season.

The afternoon was awful. We bawled out our secretary, almost had a fight with the guy in the office next to ours, and at 5 o'clock we couldn't put our hat on fast enough.

By this time the headache was getting the stomach was growling. We looked up at the sky. It was a greenish-yellow, although the fellow with us swore it was bright blue.

We stopped at an undertaker's window and tried to decide whether silver or gold handles looked best on a casket.

At the florist's where we had seen those lovely flowers in the morning, we wondered why there wasn't any "Rest in Peace" arrangement in the window.

We wouldn't eat our dinner. We grumbled at the wife. We refused to play with the dog.

We went upstairs at 8 p. m. took a couple of pills and went to sleep.

When we woke up this morning the sky was blue, the sun was shining bright, we sang while we shaved.

About to put on our ice-cream suit the wife said:

"Don't wear that; it's raining!"

Raining? and we looked out of the window. It was raining indeed, in buckets.

But what about it? It was raining outside, all right; but inside of us the weather was fine.

You can have any weather you want if you make it yourself!

The World and the Mud Puddles

THIS HAPPENS SOMETIMES

Those directing the affairs of life insurance companies today differ very materially in many ways from the officers of yesterday. The modern officers are just as keen to protect the funds invested in their companies as they ever were, but it is very seldom that they rely upon a mere technicality to avoid paying a loss. As a class, they pay immediately upon proof of loss.

Sometimes, however, there is found a punctitious official directing a life insurance company who quibbles and payment is not made until payment is forced by court order. One such case has come to my notice. A life insurance policy was issued containing the following:

"I agree that the insurance shall not take effect until the policy is delivered to and received by me during my lifetime and good health."

There was a young man who had applied for this life insurance, and the agent sent the application to the home office, and the home office mailed the policy back to the agent to be delivered to the applicant. The day before the policy reached the agent, the youth was drowned in a swimming accident.

The father was named beneficiary in the policy, applied to the company for the insurance money, but the company refused to pay, since the boy was dead before the policy arrived. The Supreme Court of Arizona has just ordered the company to pay the insurance. Said the court:

A policy of insurance is delivered to the insured when it is deposited in the mails, duly directed to the insured at his address and with postage prepaid, even though in fact he never receives it.

Likewise the policy is constructively delivered when it is mailed to an agent unconditionally and for the sole purpose of delivery to insured, even though the agent does not actually deliver the policy to the insured.

If a policy is delivered to an agent with instructions to deliver it only under certain conditions, the policy does not take effect until it is delivered. In the ordinary case it takes effect when the company mails it to its agent.

The patient earth braves good and ill,
And fills our market baskets still.

But still, when comes the golden fall,
The harvests triumph over all.

The fields grow rich with autumn gold.

The orchards once again dispute,
Men's spoken fears with ripened fruit.

And though the odds be great or small,
The patient earth still feeds us all.

United Drive Here Now Looms Brighter

War Chest Favored As Leaders Chart Plans For Fall And Winter

Prospects for a United War Chest campaign in New Castle—instead of a single Community Chest drive—brightened today when it became known that eight of the nine Community Chest agencies have already approved a combined drive.

The ninth, it is understood, may add its endorsement within a short time.

Discussion of the joint city-wide solicitation first arose several weeks ago when the Community Chest board met with prominent heads of other war effort campaigns in The Castle.

President Marshall G. Mathen of the Chest board today said another meeting of the directors will probably be called in the near future, to further weigh the united drive plan.

Such organizations as the Navy Relief Society and those similar would be included in the joint drive campaign.

When the people have made a little man "the Honorable," they think him bigger than the man who runs against him.

Senator Seeks Air Unit

That that idea expresses universal public sentiment to date I don't guarantee, but Senator Josh Lee of Oklahoma declares it does, and he said so on the senate floor.

That is, Lee did not demand the war and navy departments' abolition but he did demand an aviation department's creation and the army's and navy's subordination to it.

"This," Lee proclaimed, "is an air war, and army and navy are aviation's auxiliaries!"

Josh was called to account on the ground that he is no expert.

"Pooh!" he answered, in effect, "the average citizen is a much better judge of the whole picture than some alleged expert, concentrating on a few details."

Senator Lee perhaps is something of an extremist.

He has been chairman of a senate subcommittee named to investigate aviation's potentialities for civilian promotion of America's military resources. Possibly he mixes the two propositions together a bit.

He is decidedly an aviation fan. They say here, jokingly that he has his groceries delivered by plane, when he is home back in Oklahoma.

Anyway, Lee has some congressional support on his proposition that this war is an air war, with everything else stringing along behind it.

Young persons are more sensitive than old ones.

There are various factors regarding pain sensitivity.

Emotion raises the threshold of pain.

Cold, hunger, fatigue and debility lower the pain threshold.

Psychological factors lower the pain sensitivity.

MOSCOW REPORTS GERMANS STOPPED NEAR STALINGRAD

have met determined attacks from Russian cavalry, a Moscow communique reported.

The enemy attacked at two towns in the Krasnodar area and established bridgeheads on the south bank of the river after suffering heavy losses, the Russians acknowledged.

But the Nazis were stalled on the Stalingrad front and deep in the eastern Caucasus where the Red army was reported holding its line before Mineralnye Vodi, 130 miles northwest of the coveted Grozny petroleum area.

Heavy fighting continued around Kletskaya, in the elbow of the Don. The German columns striving to extend the northern arm of the pincers on Stalingrad were declared to have lost 5,000 dead and 30 tanks in recent fighting against the entrenched Russians.

South of the Don, where the lower arm of the pincers thrusts toward the vital Volga River industrial city, the Russian lines were intact against the heaviest Nazi onslaughts.

Repulse New Attacks

At noon the Soviet high command reported that new German attacks in the Krasnodar area had been repulsed along with Nazi assaults on all other fronts.

Intense battles continue south-east of Kletskaya, 80 miles northwest of Stalingrad, the communique said. Soviet artillery batteries repulsed four German attacks and resulted in the killing of 1,500 Nazis, it was said.

The defenders were said to be fighting stubbornly against German tank and mechanized infantry forces northeast of Kotelnikovo, 95 miles southwest of Stalingrad.

Soviet forces, the communique said, continued to repel the Nazis in the Mineralnye Vodi area.

Local fighting, it was added, still is in progress on the front north-west of Moscow.

Brings Up Reinforcements

On the northern hinge of the flaming battle line Nazi Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock was reported bringing up large reinforcements in a desperate effort to throw the Red armies back to the east bank of the Don in the Voronezh sector.

Heavy fighting was reported on the west bank of the river where the strong Russian foothold constantly threatens the German left flank. A determined Russian counter-offensive in this area would menace all German armies to the south and would cancel out all Von Bock's gains in the Caucasus.

But the most ominous news in today's communique was that of the break-through by the Germans on the Krasnodar sector. The Kuban is the last water barrier on the way to Novorossisk. Heavy battles have been fought along the river for more than a week and until now the Germans could make no successful crossing.

Murder Charge Against Woman

Daughter Of Lieut Colonel Accused Of Shooting Army Captain To Death

(International News Service)
BISBEE, Ariz., Aug. 18.—Red-haired Margaret Herlihy, daughter of Lieut. Col. Edward George Herlihy, today was charged with the murder of Capt. David Carr, the man she was to have married September 15.

Preliminary hearing of the 21-year-old girl was set for next Thursday. Cochise County Attorney John Ross announced that an inquest probably will not be held because cause of Carr's death is "pretty well known."

Miss Herlihy was brought to the courtroom from the county hospital where she has been since the fatal shooting in the Herlihy home at Douglas, Ariz., early last Saturday.

House And Senate Members Strike Back At Congress Critics

Quasi-Recess Of Both Bodies
Of Congress Brings
Some Attacks

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—With the November elections approaching, members of the Senate and House are again showing a desire to strike back at critics of Congress who are renewing attacks on the legislative body after a lull of several months.

The newest line of criticism is against the present quasi-recess of both branches, and it has already drawn replies from the floor of Congress.

The debate was touched off by the republication of a cartoon in a Washington newspaper, depicting a large figure described as "the people" hovering over the chambers of the two houses and demanding a quorum.

Rep. Charles Eaton (R-N. J.) told the House that he was "convinced that the people of the United States are too fair-minded to be led astray by that sort of information."

"In the first place," Eaton said, "this house has been in session almost continuously for the last three years. We have been carrying tremendous responsibilities and tremendous burdens. We are entitled to some sort of rest. But it is difficult to obtain it."

Rep. John M. Coffee (D-Wash.) ardent New Dealer, joined with his Republican colleague in defending Congress.

"The Congress of the United States," said Coffee, "is the only legislative body of any of the United Nations, or of any of the Democracies, whose highest parliamentary body meets in continuous session."

"New Zealand, Australia, South Africa, Great Britain, the British Commonwealth of Nations all meet intermittently, and they have been at war for two years and three months longer than we have."

Say Hitler Still Hopes To End War During This Year

(International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 18.—Hitler hopes to end the war this year by knocking out Russia and then forcing a compromise peace with the United States and Great Britain, an Istanbul dispatch to the Daily Mirror reported today.

This was the impression of a Turkish Press committee just returned from a tour of Germany, the Istanbul dispatch said.

The Turkish journalists were said to have found the people of Germany uncertain as to the war's outcome and enduring considerable hardship because of food shortages.

Installation sales accounted for 71.2 per cent of the total 1941 business of 285 credit-granting furniture stores reporting to the Department of Commerce.

Use Your ELECTRIC RANGE and ROASTER for EASY, ECONOMICAL HOME CANNING

Pack all these vitamins and minerals into jars! The Government asks that YOU take part in gathering your food supply for next winter. We've got a war on our hands. It's up to you to help all you can. Here's where your electric range proves mighty helpful—even canning, electrically, is more satisfactory because, as you well know, electric heat is even—it's measured and controlled heat—and that's the big secret to successful canning! Oven insulation keeps all the heat in the oven of the range or roaster!—and several hours of canning won't heat up your kitchen. . . . For non-acid foods (meats and most vegetables), a pressure cooker on the large surface unit of your electric range serves perfectly. Again, it's measured heat that does the trick. . . . P. S. Your electric roaster is a seven-day-wonder for home canning!

U. S. Airmen Make Ready To Attack Nazis

By JOHN E. LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

A UNITED STATES ARMY AIR CORPS SERVICE COMMAND DEPT. IN ENGLAND Aug. 18.—With the American air force revealed to have carried out additional sorties over occupied France and the English channel, this service depot was operating at top speed today, assembling and repairing U. S. planes that are going to take the war to Germany.

As the Americans acquire the "feel of action" through flights with Canadian and British fliers, workers at this depot redouble their efforts with a single thought uppermost in their minds:

To send the planes back for attacks on Adolf Hitler's Reich.

And nothing is going to halt them in their work, said Texan Lieut. Jack Hunkert of San Antonio and Port Worth.

"Whatever happens," he declared, "this base is fully organized and supplied to keep every type in the American air fleets in steady operation."

Much Camouflage

Said Technical Sgt. Ralph Devaney, also of San Antonio:

"We're used to the wide open spaces, but look at this. It's spread over miles and camouflaged to the point where it's invisible from the air."

Sergeant Devaney also asked that a message be passed to his home town. Ask the San Antonio Light, he said, to tell his wife and children, John and Gertrude, that he sends his love.

Hundreds of Americans, assisted by thousands of British girls and men, are working at this depot. There is an increasing flood of material and the finest machinery in the world is at their disposal.

"And everybody is competing like everything to provide repairs to get our planes back into action in a hurry," commented Private Woodrow Rogers, route one, Prospect, Tenn.

"This is one of many we Americans are operating through England," added Sgt. Lloyd Johnson of Rogersville, O.

Corp. William Barry of San Francisco said the depot was completely supplied with repair parts and that all parts and equipment had been shipped direct from the United States.

Among other American soldiers at the base were Pvt. James Bosira (1439 North Bentalau), Baltimore, Md.; Max Casada (438 West Page), Springfield, Mo.; Pvt. Don Pfeiffer, Bloomington, Ill.; Private Melvin Berman (227 Sullivan Place), Brooklyn, N. Y., who is racing for the Dodgers to win the pennant and world championship, and Private Jack Easton of Kokato, Minn.

Eagles Chief Urges 'Fraternal Front' For Civil Defense

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Aug. 18.—Lester H. Lobie Helena, Mont., attorney newly elected president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, advocated today mobilization of 51 American fraternal organizations with their 23,389,000 members for a vast expansion of civilian defense activities.

"The fraternal orders are organized from top to bottom and have the co-getting spirit to do such jobs as salvage collection without waste of time or money," he said.

Under his plan, the Office of Civilian Defense would appoint a director of fraternal mobilization who would assign specific defense tasks to the 51 heads of fraternal orders.

Suggests Change In Zoning Law

J. B. Foster presented a communication to city council in meeting in city hall Monday relative to a request recently made that the zoning law here be changed to make it possible to convert properties into duplexes and triplexes where such law now prohibits any such conversion.

He said the zoning law should be changed in North Jefferson street, Wilmington avenue, Highland avenue, North Mercer street and East Washington street.

He pointed out that such changes should be made also in Lincoln avenue, Wallace and Park avenues and added that there are now houses which have as high as 10 rooms.

Foster suggested that because there is no real estate board here all real estate agents should be apprised of the situation.

The communication was referred to committee.

Approve Move To Speed Payments To Dependents

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 18.—The senate on Monday passed a house-approved amendment to the service-men's family allotment bill, thereby permitting the army and the navy to make payments of benefits as soon as the accounting machinery can be set up.

As it passed both houses originally the bill prohibited payment before November 1.

Members of both houses demanded that the measure be amended to eliminate at least some of the hardship that they say is affecting many dependents of men in the service.

Weights 422 When He Is Registered

(International News Service)

BETHLEHEM, Aug. 18.—When Bethlehem draft board officials said registration was heavy, they meant it literally.

Among the 18 and 19-year-olds who recently signed up was James E. Delong, 19, who tips the scales at 422—when they register that much.

James takes a daily short walk for exercise, after which he has a pick-me-up of a quart of ice cream. Officials registered him at his home, since he seldom goes far from the house.

The Brightest Light in the World

The spirit of the American Home shines like a flaming torch of cheer and hope in a world of grim war.

What is the secret of its cheer and hope?

It is, above all, the calm, strong faith in freedom and humanity that burns bright in every American Home—small and large. In the living rooms down by the railroad tracks and the drawing rooms uptown, the radio brings to all the same American voices of democracy, the newspaper brings to all the same news of democracy. Freedom is not a mere word but a way of life.

Your home is also the home of American civilization.

Not only its furnishings make it the finest home in the world. The light that shines from it is the brightest light in the world today.

Let's keep it shining!

Dependents' Pay Measure To Affect Status In Draft

Twenty-Year Olds And Men Aiding Family May Be Called Sooner

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, Aug. 18.—Passage of a congressional measure providing for immediate pay to dependents of inducted men today apparently advanced 20-year-olds and men with dependents other than wives and children a step nearer to military service.

The congressional measure, which now goes to the president for his approval, will make it possible to pay dependents their allotments from federal funds before Nov. 1, the date set in the original dependents allowance act, and thus permit draft boards to reclassify many men from class 1-A to class 1-B, placing them in line for induction whenever necessary.

Simultaneously, Colonel Benjamin F. Evans, acting state selective service director, reiterated that draft boards in Pennsylvania are to defer until further notice the induction of married men classified as heads of families and married men when induction was not imminent. Original orders to this effect went out a month ago.

No registrants who were married at a time when their selection was not imminent and who are maintaining bona fide family relationships with their wives and children will be called until further orders (from Washington) are received," explained Evans.

Men meeting these qualifications are classified in category four and to date none has been called up in Pennsylvania, said the state director. Local boards are now inducting men from the first three categories, exhausting one category before another one is dipped into until they come to the fourth category.

State selective service headquarters on July 11 directed local draft boards to finish classifying all registrants, including 20-year-olds, and to place in 1-A men who are now in class 2-A whenever it is determined that federal allowances will be sufficient to maintain "without undue hardship" dependents other than wives and children.

Tells Farm Program At Lions Luncheon

Agricultural Conservation Chief Here Speaks As Guest Today

Consumers stand to benefit as much as farmers from the board conservation program of the Agricultural Adjustment Agency, Dorris L. Fulkman, chairman of the Agricultural Conservation Association of Lawrence County and chairman of the county's United States Department of Agriculture War Board, told the Lions club today.

The whole program, he declared, aims to provide an abundance of foodstuffs but not an over-supply. Speaking this noon at the club's weekly luncheon in The Castleton, Fulkman, whose office is in the Court House annex, described the prime purposes of the soil conservation organization. He spoke only briefly of the war board activities.

Fulkman told his audience that R. M. Evans, regional director for the conservation program in nine northeastern states, once said that "there might not have been an England" had not our food conservation program made possible needed food shipments under lend-lease.

He quoted Evans as saying that had industry had a like conservation program—stockpiles of aluminum and other vital scrap—the industrial contribution to lend-lease would have been even greater than it now is.

St. Louis Continues To Slash Dodgers Lead; Ruffing Fools Athletics, 15-0

BROWNIES SCALP INDIAN NINE, 5-2

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—The world series is six weeks off, but just as surely as though it was slated to begin tomorrow there can be no doubt as to who one of the opening game pitchers will be. Only an injury between now and October can prevent the Red Ruffing from going to the firing line to start the fall classic for the New York Yankees.

The defending world champions seem definitely to have retained their title, inasmuch as they are now 12½ games in front with no sustained threat in sight, and when Manager Joe McCarthy gets ready to face the Brooklyn Dodgers—or the club that may nose them out—he will stick his thumb toward Ruffing as though saying: "Go get 'em, Red."

With that, Big Red will stalk out to the hill and begin to turn back the opposition as though this was a Monday afternoon game with the Athletics in Philadelphia—such as yesterday's.

A's Are Eliminated

To all intents and purposes, the A's were eliminated from the American League race when Ruffing finally walked off the mound yesterday afternoon winner of a 15 to 0 shutout with the aid of Joe DiMaggio's 18th homer and three Philadelphia errors.

With that, Big Red also scored his 11th win of the season and his fourth shutout, and never let an Athletic performer get as far as third.

His victory increased the Yanks' lead to 12½ games by virtue of the fact that the second place Boston Red Sox added.

In the only other American League contest the St. Louis Browns, in a night game at Cleveland, ended a three-game series with the Indians with a 5 to 2 victory after pounding two Cleveland pitchers for eleven hits.

In the National League, the Dodgers killed and the second place St. Louis Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds, 5 to 2, to cut the Dodgers' lead to 7½ games and to knock the Reds still farther out of contention for third place. The New York Giants, who now hold down third, beat the Boston Braves, 3 to 2.

Howie Krist scored his 10th win for the Cards and the veteran Ray Starr lost his 10 game against 13 victories for the Reds.

Fifth For Adams

Ace Adams won his fifth for the Giants after 48 mound appearances, this time as relief man for Hal Schumacher, who lasted into the ninth with the aid of Manager Mel Ott's 20th homer and Babe Young's eighth. The Giants won in the ninth with two down when Babe Barna singled the winning run home.

Race Nears End

Only Three More Matches Remain For Teams In Municipal Course League

Only three more matches remain in the Sylvan Heights golf league, whose season will be officially terminated on September 2, and officials are beginning to make plans for the annual program which will wind up the league affairs.

The league leaders will have a tough row to hoe Wednesday evening with New Castle Moose meeting the strong Union team, while Frediani's tangle with Shenango Pottery, winner of the first half race, will be no so far behind in third place and have a chance to win the second half of the race and avoid a playoff. Frediani's are not favored by the schedule as they draw a bye in their final match and can score no points that evening.

Other matches tomorrow night find Universal A. A. opposing Sackett and Shelby Socials meeting Duca D'Abuzzi.

Ruth Will Wear N. Y. Yankee Suit Again On Sunday

Accepts Invitation To Participate In Gala Army-Navy Relief Attraction

By BOB BRUMBY

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Babe Ruth—the forgotten man of baseball, the man who was shunted out of the sport he loved so well by calloused owners who make a business out of the national pastime—will wear a Yankee uniform once again.

The Mighty Man of Swat accepted today an invitation to appear at the Yankee Stadium—the house that Ruth built—next Sunday when the Yankees and Senators play a double-header for Army and Navy relief.

He's Added Attraction

Ruth will be there only as an added attraction. But the mere mention of his name sent fans scurrying for the ticket windows. They would trek across country just to see the aging Sultan of Swat take a toe hold at the plate, pull at his belt and send the ball soaring out of the park.

Ed Barrow, president of the Yankees, asked Ruth to help the great cause.

"Win Louisville for three of my bats," came the lightning reply. "I ain't got any around the house. Sure I'll be there."

Ruth will be there and you can bet that every inch of "Ruthville," in the right field bleachers will be filled with yelling fans.

"Knock one our way, Babe," they will yell. If the Babe is unable to fulfill the request, he will be the saddest man in the park.

Ruth hasn't had on a Yankee uniform since the close of 1934, when, after playing 1,434 games with the Yankees, he left the club, soon to become a broken-hearted man over the shabby way he was treated.

He went over the National League for a short while with Boston, then to Brooklyn as coach. But he could never get a chance at managing a club. For some reason, the higher-ups shunned the big fellow. He left baseball in 1938.

But when the call came to help put over the game, his answer was spontaneous.

Slugged 60 In 1927

His appearance will rekindle memories of the days when he slugged 60 home runs in one year. That was in 1927. He accumulated 714 home runs for a lifetime record that may never be approached. He hit seven home runs in five consecutive games; scored the most runs, 177, in one season; hit the most home runs with bases filled, four in 1919, and so on down through the misty pages of the record books.

When he was roaring his good natured way along the once happy trail, Ruth earned $80,000 per annum through 1930 and 31, the highest salary ever paid a ball player.

Since he returned, or was forced out of baseball because no one would give him a chance to manage, Ruth has been devoting his time to golf. Recently he went to Hollywood to act as himself in a picture on the life of the late Lou Gehrig, his team mate.

(Special To The News)

MACON, Ga., Aug. 18.—Twenty-four year old Harry Shoup, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Shoup, Sr., of Bessemer, Pa., is now a captain in the United States Army Air Corps at Cochran Field, Macon, Ga.

Shoup, who entered the army in June 1940, started at Bessemer high and at Westminster college in New Wilmington, Pa. During his collegiate football career, Shoup was elected as captain.

Conscientious, diligent and personable, the promotion was awarded to a deserving young man. Shoup was promoted to a first-lieutenant only recently.

His brother, Archie, Jr., a noted western Pennsylvania athlete, is serving as an instructor in the U. S. Air Corps, at Sweetwater, Texas.

JENKINS BEATEN BY ROOKIE BOXER

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 18.—The comeback drive of "Cowboy" Lew Jenkins was at a standstill today. It hit a snag in New Orleans last night when the former lightweight champion dropped a close, but popular decision to Cosby Linson, young New Orleans fighter.

Jenkins, twice conqueror of Lou Ambers, was himself only in flashes during the ten round bout.

FAIR OR FOUL By LAWTON CARVER INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—Promoter Mike Jacobs continued to deny today that he had been given an informative wig-wag by the war department on prospects for a heavyweight championship defense by Corp. Joe Louis, but in the light of recent rumor via grapevine it seems likely that the long-discussed battle will be definitely called off in announced this week. Another 10 days deferment of plans will make it close to the absolute deadline for Corp. Louis and Pvt. Billy Conn to begin training for an outdoor extravaganza, and meantime, we've learned that:

Corp. Louis tentatively is expecting to fight late next month, prior to which he will be transferred from Fort Riley, Kansas, to another point and into a second lieutenant's commission or be sent to officer's training school for morale work which will include his touring the camps in exchange.

No Change—Army

The department replied to these rumors today from Washington with the flat assertion that there has been no change in Louis' status regarding a championship defense and added that anything concerning his being in line for a commission is up to his commander at Fort Riley.

As for Promoter Jacobs, it is a well-known fact that he would like to promote a Louis-Conn fight for a Service Relief Fund and is standing by awaiting outcome of the war department's deliberations and presumably willing to go along any way he is ordered. He undoubtedly would have to promote under the direct supervision of the Army.

Louis' qualifications for an office-ship might be open to question insofar as that angle is concerned, in view of his extremely limited education, but that comes into the realm of military procedure and perhaps he is eligible under regulations covering morale work.

In any case, come what may and when and from where it is going to go to defend that title outdoors against Conn or anybody else, an announcement on it will have to come soon. Both the champion and the challenger will need a month in a training camp, and perhaps, more to get into fighting shape after lengthy tenure in the Army, and this applies especially to Louis.

He was used to fighting at the drop of an promoter's hat before he put on that uniform, and has been out of action since last March when he took care of large Abe Simon.

Because of the routine he followed when he was fighting privately instead of for Uncle Sam, Louis will need all the time available to get himself into shape for a bout, not to be confused with perfect condition for soldiering. There is a vast difference. He probably will need extra time to take off excess weight before he really begins to get into fighting trim.

Conn Heavier

The same may apply to Conn, although he is a stringbeast sort of fellow who has spent his latter-day pugilistic time trying to put on weight, instead of taking it off. The Army routine has filled him out and he probably could enter the ring in good shape a few pounds heavier than he's ever scaled for a bout before.

But that Louis, with his eating and laziness around, he'll need a heap of time, as he's put it, and he won't be able to get it unless they say this week or next at the latest that the fight is on and he and Conn can begin training. That's assuming the powers that be want an outdoor show and won't be so silly as to wait until next winter and put this one indoors.

CHARLES KAYOES BASORA IN FIFTH

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 18.—As far as Pittsburgh boxing fans are concerned, Jose Basora, of Puerto Rico, was acclaimed today as one of the greatest leather-swingers in the business.

Basora was knocked cold in the fifth round last night by Cincinnati's sensational Ezzard Charles, but his fighting heart and thrilling rally after dusting the canvas five times for nine-counts won the applause of the crowd.

The Ohioan was completely bewildered and staggering on his feet as Basora fought like a wildcat in the fifth. But human endurance gave out and Charles stepped in with the finisher at 2:57. Charles weighed 160½, Basora 153½.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Jimmy Dunn, who visited here recently has arrived in Los Angeles but expects to return to Cleveland in October where he will continue to manage boxers. Johnny Pascoski, Enna mill-worker, won his second All-American County public golf championship by defeating Chief Petty Officer Sam Musico, 4 and 3, yesterday.

It will not be long here until the thud of the toe against the piskin will be heard. Johnny Lipon, only 19 of Detroit has won a shortstop berth with the Detroit Tigers. His first game was August 16. "It was not just what he did but the way he did it," wrote H. G. Salsinger, Detroit News Sports Writer, in describing that Lipon performed like an old-timer.

Once again Ezzard Charles reminded Pittsburgh that he is a light-heavyweight to be reckoned with by the higher-ups of Istantia. Although expected to win Charles, a Cincinnati, made a very impressive by knocking out Jose Basora of Puerto Rico in the fifth round at Millvale last night. Basora staged a game fight.

Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Don Armstrong of Aurora, Ill., and Wilford Wehrle of Racine, Wis., turned in 7½ two-bench par for medalist honors of the Chicago National Amateur golf tournament yesterday. ## Turn Out Flags In Record Numbers

Approximately 9,000 Flags A Week Being Made At Brooklyn Navy Yard

(International News Service) NEW YORK, Aug. 18.—While their industrial brothers build ships, workers in the sail and flag loft of the Brooklyn Navy Yard today are turning out flags at the rate of 9,000 a week to fly on them.

Spurred on by the fact that flags in constant use have short lives, the personnel employed furnishing replacements has been increased from 100 to more than 650 since the start of the war.

C. J. Kierman, master of the loft, explained that every ship that puts to sea must maintain, in addition to its American flag, a complete set of signal flags. These he added, last on an average of six weeks.

In all, women employees are stitching 13,500 yards of material each week. Included in the loft's 85-style catalogue are the United States ensign, the union jack, international code flags and various pennants and flags of others of the United Nations.

Replacing the Army-Navy "E" for excellence in war production alone is a full-time job. Kierman explained that the "E" which flies atop the Navy yard must be replaced about every week and a half.

Observation Post Dedicated Monday

Large Attendance At Ward Observation Post During Dedication, Monday Evening

With a large crowd attending, the dedication of the Seventh Ward Observation Post of the Aircraft Warning Service took place Monday evening. The post is situated on a hill above West Clayton street.

The American Legion Band gave a number of selections to open the service, including "God Bless America" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Lee Hanna, Chief Observer, introduced Fred M. Alexander, Chief of Aircraft Warning Service, who gave a short appropriate talk. Mr. Hanna thanked all who had assisted in any way in the erection, furnishing, and manning of the post.

The "Call to the Colors" was given by the Boy Scouts, and the American flag was raised to the head of the flag pole. Then "Retreat" was sounded on the bugle, and the Scouts lowered the flag.

It has been arranged that the Scouts will raise and lower the flag at the post, every day.

The meeting adjourned to the Mahoning school, where the following speakers took part, Wesley Day assistant executive director of Lawrence county county of defense, Numa Vidal in charge of control center, John R. Marett, chief observer of the New Wilmington post; Mr. Hanna introduced A. Lewis Conn, District Deputy Commander of American Legion. There were guests from various posts.

A discussion followed the address. Albert Stritzinger presided over the meeting.

THE NEW CASTLE STORE
Pennsylvania's Home Front
(By International News Service)
O. P. A. representatives have launched a state-wide check upon compliance with the general maximum price regulations. Agents have already toured York and Lancaster counties and now are at work in Centre, Cameron and Elk. A drastic crackdown on recalcitrant retailers is in prospect immediately after the survey, it was indicated. Initial reports, however, show a high degree of compliance with regulation.
War or no war, more than 1,000,000 automobiles must be kept moving in Pennsylvania to maintain essential civilian travel. That's the estimate of war transportation coordinators on the bases of careful survey. Experts warn that Philadelphia and other populous centers are fast nearing the saturation point of public transportation facilities.
Any old keys today? Uncle Sam wants them for conversion into weapons that will unlock the door to victory. Civilian defense officials have designated Sept. 21 as the start of "Key week."
Farm bells wrought a half-century before man dreamed of airplanes are going to herald the approach of modern bombers laden with their tons of death. The bells, some of which are a 110 years old, have been reclaimed for use in air raid alarms in Tire Hill outside Johnstown. They once clanged farm workers to noon and evening meals, but now they'll jingle a different tune.
From the hulls of three sunken steamers in Delaware River and Bay, the nation's armed forces will bene it to the extent of 3000 tons of scrap metal and steel. That's enough for six destroyers, which may make a lot more scrap out of Jap ships. One of the steamers is the "Mohawk," which caught fire in the Bay near Lewes, Del., 12 years ago.
Congratulations are in order for Howard Browning, new regional officer of the office of war information news bureau in Philadelphia. He formerly was regional director of the office of emergency management. The latter organization was superseded by the O. W. A. News Bureau.
It's still a moot point whether enemy bombers can see lighted cigarettes from the air. But Pennsylvania's council of defense has ruled that outdoor smoking during blackouts is banned. A lighted match can be spotted thousands of feet up the council pointed out.
State W. P. A. Administrator Richard Irvin announces that more than 3,610,000 pounds of Pennsylvania metals have been added to the nation's scrap heap. The steel was obtained in W. P. A. rail removal projects which have been completed in Lebanon, Homer City, Latrobe, Stroudsburg, Timonium and Farrell.
